

Contents

List of Figures	ix
Foreword	xiii
Heidi Hayes Jacobs
Preface	xv
A Resource for Teachers and Administrators	xv
Overview of the Contents	xvi
Acknowledgments	xix
About the Author	xxiii
1. How Do We Need to Think, Act, and Meet Differently?	1
Thinking Differently: Planned Versus Operational Curriculum	1
Acting Differently: Verification Versus Speculation	3
Meeting Differently: A Collegial Forum	6
Conclusion	8
Review Questions	9
2. What Are the Four Types of Curriculum Maps?	11
Four Types of Curriculum Maps	11
Curriculum Map Elements: An Overview	20
Conclusion	23
Review Questions	23
3. What Should We Consider Before Developing Curriculum Maps?	25
First Consideration: Exploring Personal and Collaborative Understanding of Curriculum Design	26
Second Consideration: The Ongoing Nature of Mapping Reviews	30
Third Consideration: A Mapping Sequence That Is Right for Your Learning Organization	32
Conclusion	37
Review Questions	38
4. What Elements Are Commonly Included in Curriculum Maps?	39
Curriculum Map Alignments and Elements	39
Writing the Elements	42

Conclusion	97
Review Questions	98
Descriptive or Not Descriptive?
That Is the Question! (Math Focus)	99
Descriptive or Not Descriptive?
That Is the Question! (Language Arts Focus)	101
Skill Versus Activity (Math Focus: Primary Grades)	103
Skill Versus Activity (Various-Discipline Focus: Upper Grades)	105
Assessment Versus Evaluation	107
5. What Should We Know Before Creating Diary
Maps or Projected Maps?	109
Points to Ponder	109
Implementation Considerations	113
Conclusion	119
Sample Projected/Diary Maps	120
Review Questions	129
Conducting an Initial Read-Through:
Facilitator Explanation and How-To Guide	130
Conducting an Initial Read-Through:
Team Member Explanation and How-To Guide	139
Initial Read-Through: Collaborating to Create Quality Maps	142
Initial Read-Through Card Shuffle Debrief	144
6. What Should We Know Before
Creating Consensus Maps and Essential Maps?	145
Map Type Differentiation	145
Developmental Considerations	155
Conclusion	157
Sample Consensus Maps and Essential Maps	158
Review Questions	158
7. How Should We Be Using Our Created Curriculum Maps?	163
Conducting Data-Driven Reviews	163
Investigating the Curriculum	170
Conclusion	180
Review Questions	180
8. What Data Is Often Incorporated When Refining
Curriculum Maps?	181
Additional Map Data	181
Essential and Supporting Questions	188
Conclusion	197
Review Questions	197
9. How May Interpreting Standards Influence Our
Curriculum Design?	199
Standards and Curriculum	200
Breaking Apart Standards	201

Determining Power Standards	209
Conclusion	214
Review Questions	214
10. What Should We Consider Regarding Technology?	217
Commercial Online Mapping Systems	217
Mapping System Considerations	219
Conclusion	229
Review Questions	229
11. What Should We Focus on When Planning Our Implementation?	231
Systemic Change and Curriculum Mapping	232
Vision	232
Skills	243
Resources	245
Incentives	251
Action Plans	253
Conclusion	255
Review Task	255
12. What Roadblocks and Brick Walls May We Encounter Along the Way?	257
Practical Advice From Practitioners	258
Glossary of Terms	283
Curriculum Mapping	283
Types of Maps	283
Map Elements	283
Alignments	285
Seven-Step Review Process	285
Common Review Focuses	287
Curriculum Mapping Intra-Organizations	287
Miscellaneous Terms	288
References	289
Index	293