

---

---

CONTENTS

---

---

PREFACE		xi
THE AUTHOR		xxi
CHAPTER 1	A Learning-Centered Approach to Course and Curriculum Design	1
CHAPTER 2	Systematic Design: Model and Benefits	13
CHAPTER 3	Making the Decision to Go Ahead	31
CHAPTER 4	Getting Started	43
CHAPTER 5	Linking Goals, Courses, and Curricula	49
CHAPTER 6	Gathering and Analyzing Essential Data	59
CHAPTER 7	Developing a Design for an Ideal Course or Curriculum	79
CHAPTER 8	Adjusting from the Ideal to the Possible	107
CHAPTER 9	Clarifying Instructional Goals and Objectives	125
CHAPTER 10	Designing Assessment Instruments and Procedures	139
CHAPTER 11	Designing the Learning Experience	153
CHAPTER 12	Selecting and Using Technology	169

CHAPTER 13	Developing a Learning-Centered Syllabus	191
CHAPTER 14	Cultivating a Respect for Diversity	203
CHAPTER 15	Implementing, Evaluating, and Refining the Course or Curriculum	215
CHAPTER 16	Learning from Experience	235
RESOURCE A	Questions for Evaluating a College Course Richard R. Sunweeks, Robert M. Diamond	241
RESOURCE B	Case Studies in Developing Learning Outcomes	247
RESOURCE C	Mathematics Prerequisites and Student Success in Introductory Courses: Final Report William J. Hardin	257
RESOURCE D	Sample Alumni Survey for Evaluating Program Effectiveness and Needs	265
RESOURCE E	Additional Case Studies in Course Design	277
RESOURCE F	Developing an Institutional Assessment Culture at Truman State University Bronwyn Adams	283
RESOURCE G	Qualities of the Liberally Educated Person: A Description of Important Competencies Rutgers University-Newark	289
RESOURCE H	Sample Copyright Agreement	299
RESOURCE I	Teaching Goals Inventory: Self-Scorable Version	303
REFERENCES		309
NAME INDEX		315
SUBJECT INDEX		317