

TABLE OF CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION xi

LEARNING RECONSIDERED AND LEARNING RECONSIDERED 2:
WHAT NOW?

James H. Cook and Christopher A. Lewis

Student Affairs Professionals Working With and In Academic Affairs
And Now for a Little “Housekeeping”
References

CHAPTER ONE 1

DIVINE COMITY: THE BASICS

James H. Cook, Abby M. Ghering, and Christopher A. Lewis

Thank You, Mr. Alighieri
Perspective and Passion
From Separation to Collaboration
Divine Comity’s Practical Intent
The Circles Defined
References

CHAPTER TWO 17

COLLABORATION: DEFINITIONS AND BARRIERS

James H. Cook, Robert E. Eaker, Abby M. Ghering, and Debra K. Sells

Collaboration Defined
Barriers to the Creation of a Collaborative Culture
Conclusion
References

CHAPTER THREE 33

THE STATE OF STUDENT AND ACADEMIC AFFAIRS
PARTNERSHIPS: A NATIONAL PERSPECTIVE

Kim C. O'Halloran

- Collaboration Types
- Reasons for Collaboration
- Research on the Importance of Collaboration
- The Current Status of Collaboration: A Quantitative Study
- Results
- Recommendations for Practice and Research
- References

CHAPTER FOUR 53

CIRCLES ONE AND TWO: PROMISING PRACTICES IN ACADEMIC AND STUDENT AFFAIRS COLLABORATION

James H. Cook and Abby M. Ghering

- Ten Promising Practices

CHAPTER FIVE 63

CIRCLE THREE: TOP-DOWN COMMITMENT

Tomás D. Morales

- Creating Organizational Change
- The Role of the President
- Supporting and Assessing Student Learning
- Examining Shared Institutional Leadership
- References

CHAPTER SIX 77

CIRCLE FOUR: ACTIVE OUTREACH

Robert Caruso

Student Affairs Philosophical Tenets and Assumptions
Cultural Differences between Academic and Student Affairs
The Rationale for Active Outreach and Collaboration
Developing Effective Outreach
Examples of Successful Practices
Tips for Student Affairs Practitioners
Conclusion
References

CHAPTER SEVEN 105

CIRCLE FIVE: MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING THROUGH FREQUENT COMMUNICATION

Robert E. Eaker and Debra K. Sells

Structure and Culture: The Need for Both Formal and Informal
Communication
Embedding the Values of Communication and Collaboration
within the Culture
A Shared Focus for Communication and Collaboration
Conclusion
References

CHAPTER EIGHT. 117

CIRCLE SIX: SERVICE-LEARNING AS CROSSROADS

Jeff P. Stein

At the Crossroads of Civic Engagement and Engaged Learning
Mutuality, Reciprocity, and Partnership
The X-Factor: Dissonance and Transformation
Roles for Faculty, Student Affairs, and Senior Administration
Service-learning Best Practices
Conclusion
References

CHAPTER NINE 155

CIRCLE SEVEN: CLASSROOM–RESIDENCE HALL CONTINUITY

John W. Schmidt

- A Campus X-Ray
- A Shared Learning Challenge
- The Learning Community Experience
- Continuing the Momentum for Learning Collaboration
- Defining a Suitable Learning Community
- Conclusion
- References

CHAPTER TEN 171

CIRCLE EIGHT: WELL-COORDINATED ASSESSMENT

Sandi N. Osters

- Choosing Best Practice Examples
- Presenting Best Practice Examples
- Best Practice Programs
- Conclusion
- References

CHAPTER ELEVEN 201

COLLABORATION IN THE COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Edward J. Shenk and Magdalena H. de la Teja

- Mission of the Community College
- Students Enrolled in Community Colleges
- Promoting Effective Collaboration: Opportunities and Challenges
- Culture of Evidence
- Survey of Best Practices and Recommendations
- Conclusion
- References

CHAPTER TWELVE 239

THE ONCE AND FUTURE COLLABORATION OF ACADEMIC AND STUDENT AFFAIRS

Frank P. Ardaiole

The Once

The Now

The Future

Making Meaning of New Knowledge and New Experiences: The Once
and Future Relationship of Academic and Student Affairs

References

CHAPTER THIRTEEN 265

DEVELOPING EFFECTIVE COLLABORATIONS

Alma R. Clayton-Pedersen and Gwendolyn J. Dungy

Overview of the Collaboration Conceptual Framework

External and Internal Forces for Change

The Cornerstone of Collaboration

Resources—Collaborate by What Means?

Capacity—Collaborate by What Processes?

Assessment—How Will We Know Collaboration Works?

Conclusion

References

APPENDIX A 283

UNIVERSITY OF CINCINNATI A STATEMENT OF SHARED RESPONSIBILITY: “CREATING A LEARNING ORIENTED CAMPUS”

APPENDIX B 287

A SERVICE AND LEARNING TYPOLOGY

APPENDIX C	289
WHAT STUDENTS PARTICIPATING IN SERVICE-LEARNING DEVELOP
APPENDIX D	291
QUESTIONS TO ASK ABOUT SERVICE-LEARNING PARTNERSHIPS
APPENDIX E	295
STUDENT AFFAIRS AND ACADEMIC AFFAIRS COLLABORATIVE
EXAMPLES
APPENDIX F	297
WEATHERFORD RESIDENTIAL COLLEGE IN ENTREPRENEURSHIP
CURRICULUM MAP
APPENDIX G	313
CONTACT INFORMATION FOR INSTITUTIONS WITH PROMISING
PRACTICES
CONTRIBUTORS	321