

Installing Client Software on the Remote Computer:

July 14, 2006

Note: All Windows XP Home and Professional systems have this client software already installed, you may skip to “Running the installed software” below.

The remote client software runs on the remote machine, this software fits on a diskette or can be installed from the Windows installation CD on any Windows 9x or higher PC or any Macintosh running OS X or greater. Macintosh Client Software is available on the internet or contact the ITS Computer Consulting Center at 273-5555.

To Install Remote Communication Client Software on Windows Systems:

Go to this web site <http://www.microsoft.com/windowsxp/downloads/tools/rdclientdl.mspx> and follow instructions or

Insert Windows CD

Select Perform Additional Tasks (**Warning** to NOT install XP on the client machine)

Select Setup Remote Desktop Connection

---

When the above is successful...

Running the installed software:

Start

My Programs

Accessories

Communication

Remote Communication

Follow next handout