* Your seminar paper is only required to be a minimum of 8 pages. Therefore, you will only be required to have 6 references or more. Your Masters paper will be expected to be 30 pages and you will be expected to have 30 or more references.

It is understood that this is your first draft and that you are awaiting input from your professor. You are expected, however, to have read and understood the expected contents of your paper (see graduate packet and literature review outline). You will also be expected to have read and understood the required APA format.

Due to the formative nature of the rough draft, the grading will be somewhat lenient. YOUR requirements for crafting your final paper are to pay attention to feedback notes provided to you in the returned version AND the rubric that is provided for the final paper.

Your final paper will be graded as a whole product based upon the rubric supplied. It is expected that you will use proper APA format, spelling and grammar. Not all of your spelling and/or grammar errors will be found by your professor in reviewing your rough draft. Therefore, not being informed of an error in the rough draft is NOT a valid excuse for having an error in your final paper.
